

---

L'università oggi: crisi, istanze e prospettive

Autore: Elena Granata

Fonte: Sophia

It is clear that in the contemporary crisis and self-analysis going on within modern universities, current university models are not broad enough to meet today's challenges. There needs to be an integration between knowledge and life. There is also a need for a critical approach through interdisciplinary research, development of student/teacher relationships and an improvement of the inter relationship between lectures. It's very important also to ensure an inclusive atmosphere where the ideas of women and young people can flourish.